DEATH BENEFIT PRIORITY BEFORE PENSION BEGINS

Plan Legislation requires that, if you die before your pension begins, benefits must be paid in the following priority:

1. Spouse/pension partner
2. Dependent minor children, if you have no spouse/pension partner
3. Named beneficiary, if you have no spouse/pension partner or dependent minor children
4. Estate

WHAT BENEFITS ARE PAYABLE?

Death Before Entitled to a Pension

If you die before you have enough pensionable service (generally five years) to be eligible for a pension, your beneficiary (as determined by the priority list above) will receive your contributions with interest, plus the value of any actuarial purchase of service.

Death After Entitled to a Pension

If you die after you have enough pensionable service to be eligible for a pension, your surviving spouse/pension partner will receive a pension equal to the amount he or she would have received if you had elected a Joint Equal Pension Option with 100% continuing to your spouse/pension partner for life (reduced if necessary to comply with tax rule maximums).

If you have no spouse/pension partner but you have dependent minor children, your dependent minor children will receive double your contributions with interest plus the value of any actuarial purchase of service.

If you have no spouse/pension partner or dependent minor children, your designated beneficiary or estate will receive your contributions with interest plus the value of any actuarial purchases of pensionable service.

Death After Pension Begins

If you die after your pension begins, the benefit will be determined by the pension option you elected at retirement.

CAN I DESIGNATE A CHARITY OR ORGANIZATION AS MY BENEFICIARY?

You may name specific individuals, a charity or organization, or your estate. If you are designating a charity or organization, only the name and address are required.

CAN I CHANGE MY BENEFICIARY IF I AM SEPARATED?

If you have not been "living separate and apart" for at least three years, you are still considered to have a spouse/pension partner. This means that if your death occurs within that three-year period or before your divorce is final, whichever comes first, ATRF must pay your spouse/pension partner the death benefit.
